

We've stayed in Orlando longer than usual this summer as Lorna was offered a coaching role in AAU for Track and Field. Two of the athletes Lorna has coached for hurdles will be going to the FL Junior Olympics the last weekend of July.

In addition, last week Lorna spoke and ministered to 56 Haitian students for three days at J.A.M Camp (at right). See the pics and read her enclosed O.A.T. Academy update as six students made decisions to accept Christ in their lives.

Lorna interviewed two Olympic hopefuls: Jessica Beard and Mikel Thomas. Both have been at their respective country's Olympic trials. Link to listen: <https://mylc.faith/home> Lorna was asked by Athletes in Action (AIA) to interview each and have them share about their faith and desire to run for Christ. Keep our AIA ministry in prayer as they seek to minister in Tokyo during the Olympics.

STORIES OF GOD AT WORK!

FACULTY REACHING FACULTY

Disciple-making has flourished among Univ. of Florida (UF) faculty during the pandemic. Faculty are engaging UF friends and colleagues in spiritual conversations. They welcome new arrivals with gift bags, treat colleagues to lunch, pray with them, and provide evangelistic videos and Bible studies. They take every opportunity to share their own journey with Christ.

Faculty Commons staff member Howie Kauffman commented, "We're delighted to see a growing number of faculty personally owning the vision of winning UF and the world for Christ."

One professor, Dr. Lisa Lundy, leads an online discipleship group of peers. Members come from her own UF department and universities in GA and OH. God's at work, professor to professor and campus to campus.

ATHLETES PUBLICLY PROCLAIM FAITH

In a country in Southeast Asia, an Athletes In Action (AIA) team had four disciples publicly proclaim their faith by water baptism in March. The four soccer players and 25 members of a local church participated in the ceremony at a rented swimming pool.

When they were about to pay for the rent for the pool, the owner said she wouldn't charge anything. The team learned that she is also a believer, and she offered her place for the ministry to have their baptisms.

The four athletes are university students currently in a discipleship group with other athletes led by AIA. They meet every Wednesday for Bible studies and one-on-one discipleship sessions with their discipler.

Dirke with his two brothers, Wes and Jack this past week. Jack's wife Jan passed on July 18th with pancreatic cancer. She was strong in her faith and will be greatly missed.

Pray for Jack, and Jan's family during this difficult time.
